Details

This table is a design piece crafted in the 1980s, boasting an elegant structure. One can immediately notice the striking contrast between the base, made of empty white concrete, and the removable dark brown eradicated wenge top which was added probably later and it's a perfect match! The white base showcases imprints of hexagonal shapes, evoking the cells of a beehive, arranged in a repetitive pattern. In stark contrast, the tabletop features a horizontal framework, adorned with a symphony of irregular lines that run over the surface.
