Details

The work is a lively portrayal of an African nude woman in her bedroom. Under the bed, a discontent cat harbors grudges against its owner robbing its yellow cushion. The painting is signed and titled. This is early work since his paintings became more abstract now.

Rupert Picott is an African American. He is known for his vibrant color, abstract painting, and mixed media. Picott has a unique talent for creating a colorful and surreal vision of everyday life and presenting it on a blank page. Rupert Picott lives between New York, France, and Africa where he probably painted this piece.
